MORE OF THE BOXERS' DEVILTRY.

Cossacks Have a Fight With Them and Kill Sixteen.

By Wire to The Telegram.
Tien-Tsin June 3—(Sunday)—Two more parties of foreigners who fled from Poa-Ting-Fu have arrived here. One was badly injured. The relief expedition has returned. Cossacks who went in search of refugees also returned this evening. The report that they had to fight Boxers at Tui, killing sixteen, and wounding many. Lieut. Bleusky, Dr. Hamilton, a trooper and a civilian, were wounded. It is reported from Poa-Ting-Fu that eight Americans, three members China inland mission, and missionaries are in great danger. No further news has been received regarding the missing refugees.

Friends Memorial Day.

Correspondence of the Telegram.
Guilford College, N. C., June 3—Guilford College Friends Memorial Day and the 15th Anniversary of the organization of New Garden Monthly Meeting was held in the meeting house at Guilford College today.

After Bible school and preaching in the forenoon, the assembled families and visitors enjoyed an old fashioned basket dinner.

At 2 o'clock the afternoon session was entered upon. Pres. L. L. Hobbs spoke on the Modes of Worship of the Friends Church. Mrs. P. B. Hackney spoke on Individual Responsibility. Mrs. Mary C. Woody read an article on Friends, a Factor in Christianizing the World, written by Prof. Woody, and also spoke on "Heroes in Moral and Christian Warfare." Rev. Albert Peele spoke on the History of New Garden Monthly Meeting. His remarks were supplemented by Mrs. Cartland.

How George Disposed of His Relatives.

Boston Transcript.

Just ahead of me in the train the other morning sat two men who were telling the stories that are never old, about the bright sayings of their children. One of them had a brand-new one about his four-year-old George. This youngster had been tucked in bed after a day of the most fatiguing play. He yawned while being undressed and was all but asleep by the time that he found himself between the sheets. His mother none the less insisted upon his repeating the prayer of childhood. He started sleepily, requiring prompting at the beginning of every line. Drowsiness had nearly won the mastery by the time that he had obediently got as far as "take my soul."

"God bless—" prompted his mother. George has a long list of relatives. There was a flutter of his sleep-laden lids as he lumped them all together: "God bless the whole shooting match!" And he was asleep at last.

A Card of Thanks.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The family of Mr. W. L. Enoch, deceased, who was so suddenly stricken with paralysis in Greensboro May 25th, extend their heartfelt thanks to the people of Greensboro, who waited on and showed so much sympathy toward his family in their sad hour. May God bless the kind people of Greensboro, and especially those who cared for the sick and his family so tenderly.

Court in Session.

Judge Fred Moore, of Asheville, opened the June term of Superior Court this morning at 9:30 o'clock. After the grand jurors had been drawn and the Judge's charge delivered the criminal docket was taken up. Both the criminal and civil dockets are heavy.

This is a three weeks term. Mr. J. H. Johnston, of Jamestown, is foreman of the grand jury.

On Jr. O. U. A. M. Business.

Several members of the State Council of the Junior Order United American Mechanics held a meeting here Saturday night to settle a matter of difference in one of the Durham councils. Those in attendance were: State Councillor B. S. Nissen, State Council Secretary Sam F. Vance, E. W. Carroll and J. F. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem; J. N. Maxwell, of Salisbury; Dr. R. A. Moore, Luther M. Carlton and J. T. Wade of Durham.

TELEGRAM WAS STRICTLY IN IT.

Appreciated at High Point—Wheat Ready to Cut—Mr. Wood's Report of the Reunion—May be a Marriage.

Correspondence of the Telegram.
High Point, June 4.—The improvements that Jess Edmondson has made at his place of business are noticeable upon entering.

"Binks" Partridge who has been touring the State trying to find one of the "Three Chums," had to return home on account of bad health, caused by irregular habits, especially in the eating line!

On passing down East Washington street one will at once notice an improvement. Street Overseer Jacob Maynard and his force of hands have wrought the change.

There may be a marriage in High Point soon, but I doubt it seriously. I have reference to—well, you know who.

Judging from the looks of wheat around town some of it will be ripe enough to cut this week.

A. K. Venable, of Greensboro, spent Sunday here very pleasantly.

T. D. Young, of Rochester, N. Y., is in town.

Ed. L. Ragan, of the revenue force, ran the blockade here yesterday. That is he blocked the way so no one could talk to her but him.

The Telegram was strictly in it Saturday, giving its readers sixteen pages of good reading matter, which was appreciated by its High Point subscribers.

Clarence Field, of Charlotte, was here yesterday.

The remains of Bob Lindsay were interred in the cemetery here Saturday afternoon.

Mr. W. Penn Wood, of Goldsboro, spent yesterday here returning from the reunion of the Confederate veterans at Louisville. He says that this year's reunion was a big success, notwithstanding it rained every day during the occasion. The veterans of this State were treated royally, so Mr. Wood says.

PRETTIEST IN ITS HISTORY.

Maj. Joe Says the Battle Ground Never Looked so Well as Now—Judge Schenk's Work on the Ground.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

Guilford Battle Ground presents this day the most pleasing presence in its history. There is more of its surface in cultivation, more seeded to grass and more of its green lounging spots cleaned of every eyesore than ever before. Its rows of sugar maples are larger and more healthful and vigorous than ever before.

Judge Schenk's zeal knows no abatement and his presence upon the ground expedites the work done. The necessary paint freshly applied to lodge, restaurant etc., enhances their beauty.

You humble servant, the subscriber, is it feared by same, is about to lose his mind on the subject of an unveiling on the great celebration of the approaching 4th of July. Well, he of course is not a competent witness in the case, but like the gallant who thoughtit wrong to dance, but was compelled to dance, he is "doing his darndest."

Old Mecklenburg county has done more towards the honorable publication abroad of North Carolina for 80 years past than every other instrumentality within the State's borders. New Hanover, Alamance, Pender and Guilford should emulate her noble example.

Yours truly,
JOS. M. MOREHEAD.

Seventeen to Nine.

The game of baseball between the Southern Railway boys and some of the employees of the Cone Export and Commission Company, at Athletic Park Saturday afternoon, was interesting, despite the fact that the score was out of all proportion to modern ball methods. The Southern Railway boys won to the tune of seventeen to nine.

TO BE IN PRETORIA TODAY.

SUCH NEWS EXPECTED IN ENGLAND.

Explanation of Roberts' Delay—Dr. Reintz Gets Off with his Gold Bars—Dr. Leyds Has Shut up Shop—Africans that President Steyn Will Leave Unceremoniously.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, June 4.—There's a general expectation that news that Pretoria has been captured will be received today. Latest explanation of the delay of Roberts is that he is giving several columns of his flanks the opportunity to advance towards each other in an attempt to envelop such of the Boer forces as may be in the neighborhood of Pretoria. In the Orange River colony the Boers are reported to be keeping a close watch upon President Steyn to prevent him from leaving the commandoes in the lurch.

PRETORIA IN CONFUSION.

Capetown, June 3 (Sunday) The telegraph to Pretoria is still open, but the town is in great confusion. There has been a general exodus, among them being the foreign fighting legion. Six special trains left Pretoria Wednesday last. One of them was reported derailed. No British refugees have arrived here yet.

REITZ GETS OFF WITH SWAG.

London, June 4.—A Lorenzo Marquez despatch today says that Secretary Reitz and family have sailed on the German steamer Budesath. They carried with them thirty-six boxes of bar gold.

DAVITT WANTED TO HELP BOERS.

London, June 4.—Michael Davitt, who went to Pretoria ostensibly as a correspondent, is reported to have said to the shipping official before leaving Lorenzo Marquez: "I am too late this time to help the Transvaal, but in the next war, which will not be far off, I hope to be in good time to render some service."

PRETORIA REPORTED INVESTED.

An undated dispatch from Pretoria, via Lorenzo Marquez today, says that Pretoria has been invested by the British. Resistance has practically ceased, and the city will be surrendered as soon as formal demand is made.

To Bring Over Cuban Teachers.

By Wire to the Telegram.
Washington, June 4.—The war department is preparing to have five transports ready the latter part of this month to convey the teachers of the Cuban school to this country where they will receive a special course of instruction in Harvard College.

Mrs. Sherman Dying.

By Wire to the Telegram
Mansfield, O., June 4.—Mrs. John Sherman, wife of the ex-secretary, received another paralytic stroke last night, and there is little hope of her recovery.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS TODAY.

Dr. Storrs, the pastor of the Emeritus church, of New York, is lying very low at his home and for some time has been unable to leave his bed.

Dr. Leyds' bureau at Brussels has been dismantled. Dr. Leyds, who is the European agent for the Boers, having left the city.

The town hall at Roxboro, Massachusetts, was burned to the ground early this morning. One fireman was killed and four injured.

A fire in the barns of the Catholic convent at Nyac, New York, less than three hundred feet away from the building, endangered the lives of 500 children of the St. Donnick Asylum last night. The sisters marched the little ones out safely by dint of pure discipline.

Wants a Retraction.

C. B. Brooks, the erstwhile editor of the Guilford Vidette, who deserted his wife and three children, read a notice of his departure in the Greensboro Patriot and wrote Editor Barber for a "hasty retraction of the false charge." He writes from Rutherfordton, where his family formerly resided. He does not state whether his wife and fond mother-in-law have learned of his whereabouts.

New York Cotton Market.

New York, June 4.—Cotton, August, 819, September 790, October 774.

SABBATH DISTURBANCES.

Only Three Cases Claimed the Attention of the Officers Yesterday—Fought With a Skillet Lid.

The police officers had a comparatively quiet day yesterday, only two or three disturbances claiming their attention.

Early in the day Lindsay Morehead, colored, was locked up for being drunk and disorderly.

Annie Roney, a familiar figure in the Mayor's court, became engaged in a quarrel with another negro woman over a man in whom they were both interested. Annie's jealousy and feeling got the better of her and she stabbed her friend several times with a knife, inflicting painful wounds.

Late in the afternoon Officers Pearce and Cates were called to Duplin to settle a dispute between two drunken negro women—sisters. One of them seized a skillet lid and knocked the other into insensibility.

All these will be given an opportunity to explain their actions before the Mayor.

MARRIAGE THIS MORNING.

A very pretty marriage which took place this morning at eleven o'clock in St. Andrew's church, was that of Miss Clara Stewart, daughter of Mr. W. T. Stewart, of Greensboro, and Mr. Joseph Lawrence Ritter, of New York. Rev. Horace Weeks Jones performed the ceremony. The church was tastefully decorated with cut flowers. Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered as the bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given away. The attendants were her sister, Miss May Stewart, and Miss Tillie Dowling. The bride looked very handsome in an exquisite gown of blue silk, elaborately trimmed with lace and chiffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritter left on the noon train for New York, their future home.

DECEITFULNESS OF THE HEART.

Mr. Murray's Subject at Westminster. Will Engage in Home Mission Work.

Rev. Will A. Murray preached a splendid sermon at Westminster Presbyterian church yesterday morning from the ninth verse of the twenty-seventh chapter of Jeremiah: "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked; who can know it?" The sermon contained much thought and was delivered with ease and grace. It would have done credit to a minister of mature years and long experience.

Mr. Murray has just graduated with honor from the Union Theological Seminary and gives promise of developing into a strong and useful preacher.

He will stand his examination for license as an evangelist before a called meeting of Orange Presbytery on the 12th inst., after which he will be assigned to home mission work in Alleghany county. There is not a Presbyterian church, and but one Presbyterian, in the entire county.

An Infant Bound Over to Court.

This morning Justice Eckel tried Frank Fields, a young white boy, for assaulting John Whittington, a schoolmate at the Normal practice school, with a deadly weapon. Young Fields used a pocket knife and inflicted a dangerous wound on his playmate. The affair occurred some time ago. The defendant, who is only 12 or 13 years old, was bound over to court.

Southsiders to Give a Lawn Party.

The Southside Hose Company has arranged to give a lawn party on Wednesday night, the 13th instant. The friends of the gallant firemen composing this company know what this announcement means and will await with interest this pleasant occasion. The place will be announced later.

A Sunday Morning Marriage.

Mr. Joseph A. Harvey and Miss Elizabeth M. Peterson, both of this county, drove into town with a party of friends yesterday morning and were married by Justice A. P. Eckel, the ceremony being performed in the latter's office on East Sycamore street.

CAPT. GODFREY KILLED.

Funston Has a Brush With Fillices and Loses one Man.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Manila, June 4.—General Funston, who is hunting the rebels who captured Capt. Roberts, of the 35th Volunteer Infantry, a few days ago, engaged a part of the insurgents yesterday twenty-five miles north of San Miguel. In the engagement Capt. Godfrey, of the 22nd regulars, and one private was killed.

OLD SURRY IN LINE.

Democrats Nominate Spencer Adams' Brother for Sheriff.

A gentleman here today from Mt. Airy tells the Telegram that the Surry county Democratic convention, which was held in Dobson Saturday, was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings of Democrats ever held in that section of the State. Every precinct in the county was represented by a full delegation, the crowd filling the court house completely.

The ticket nominated is regarded as the strongest that could have been put out. W. L. Reese, of Dobson, is the nominee for the House of Representatives. Jack Adams, one the best Democrats in North Carolina, and a brother to the Republican nominee for Governor, was nominated for sheriff amidst a perfect groundswell of enthusiasm. He declined to allow his name to go before the convention, but his friends arose as one man and would hear to no one else receiving the nomination.

The convention adopted resolutions strongly endorsing S. Porter Graves, of Mt. Airy, for Congress. His friends expect to see him nominated by the Eighth District convention.

Old Surry is getting in line and will undoubtedly give a good majority for the Democratic nominees and the amendment. The Democrats of that county are united and at work.

MAY A MAN WORK ON SUNDAY.

A Man Has a Right to Keep Whatever Day he Desires as His Sabbath.

In the course of his sermon yesterday Rev. Livingston Johnson, of the Washington Street Baptist church, referred to the fact that a man had recently been fined in Greensboro for working on Sunday, although he had religiously observed Saturday as his Sabbath.

Mr. Johnson said that he desired to enter his protest against this because he did not believe that it ought to be allowed to go without protest from some pulpit of the city. It was, he said, an infringement upon religious liberty and a denial of a man's right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, which should be a man's sole standard as his duty. The officer might be carrying out the law, for the speaker did not know about the statute, but the law was wrong and had no right of existence. The law had no right to say to a man what day he should keep, as he was responsible alone to God, and he must search God's Word and decide for himself such questions.

"It may be said," continued Mr. Johnson, "that this man was disturbing others. I reply that he was not disturbing any one half as much as do these trains which dash continually through the country and intrude their noise and disturbance upon Sabbath keepers in all parts of the land."

FULL DUTY FOR DEMOCRACY.

Edgecombe Will Come up to Her Full Measure and Appeals to the West.

Mr. E. P. Land, of this city, received a letter yesterday from an old friend of his in Edgecombe county, an extract from which is as follows:

"Be assured Edgecombe will do her full duty for Democracy. She cannot afford to do without the amendment. Nobody here fears failure. With the amendment prosperity is sure. Without it ruin is inevitable, and desperation must follow with all its consequences which, as an old man, I do not wish to think of, but I beg you to beseech the people of your adopted county to help save eastern Carolina from such a fate as must inevitably come from the failure of the amendment."

MR. PRITCHARD'S RESOLUTION.

AIMED AT SOME SOUTHERN STATES.

There is not thought to be the slightest possibility of the passage of the Substitute during the present session—An American's View on the Paris Show. Fear for the Naval Appropriation Bill. Special to the Telegram.

Washington, June 4—The Senate committee on privileges and elections has reported a substitute for the Pritchard resolution. The original resolution of the North Carolina Senator, introduced in the Senate, was aimed at the proposed constitutional amendment in North Carolina, and declares the exclusion of the negro from the franchise to be contrary to the United States Constitution. Although ostensibly aimed at the North Carolina amendment to be voted upon in August, it affects also the laws in force in Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and other Southern States, which have adopted election provisions somewhat similar to that which the Democracy are seeking to place in the North Carolina constitution.

The substitute for the Pritchard resolution provides for an investigation by the committee on privileges and elections to ascertain whether, or not, such exclusion is antagonistic to the Federal Constitution. Senator Pritchard introduced his original resolution in the Senate early in the session, and there have been already a few speeches on the subject in the Senate, one of the most notable in opposition having been delivered by Senator Morgan, of Alabama. Senator Pritchard urged the favorable report on his resolution, but it is understood the substitute was adopted in the committee with his consent. The vote on the adoption of the substitute reported was by a strict party vote.

There is not thought to be the slightest possibility of the passage of the substitute to the Pritchard resolution during the present session of Congress. The subject will probably, by general consent, be allowed to go over until the short session of Congress.

Mr. F. Minchard, the well-known Washington correspondent, whose home is at New Orleans, and who has represented several leading Southern dailies at the national Capital, has just returned to Washington from a short trip to the Paris Exposition. In Mr. Minchard's opinion the show at Paris is not nearly up to the standard set by the great Chicago Exposition in our country. The views he says are not beautiful, as has been represented, and the buildings look as if they were all jammed together. He says that if any one is contemplating going to Paris, that they had better provide themselves with plenty of the good hard substance, as they will need all the money they can get. He thinks the extortion is something awful, and would not be tolerated in any city in the United States for a moment.

Mr. Minchard says he is not sorry he went to see the Exposition, for he comes back home feeling a greater pride than ever in his own country. In his opinion there is not a country in Europe to compare with the United States.

Considerable fear is felt at the Capitol lest the disagreement manifested over the Armor Plate proposition may cause the defeat of the Naval Appropriation bill this session. Senator Tillman, one of the conferees, and the leader of the movement for a Government armor plate factory, declares that he would prefer to see the entire naval bill defeated than to have the Senate yield to the House of Representatives on the Armor Plate amendment. The sentiment in the House is strongly against yielding to the Senate, so a deadlock between the two houses, which may delay adjournment for several days is a strong possibility.

A Call to Knights.

The following Knights are requested to meet at their lodge room this evening to take part in a full dress rehearsal of the team and to organize a side degree. All Pythians who wish to get in on the ground floor should be present:

A Limit.

"But," we assured him solemnly, "to receive proper consideration, you do not owe enough."

"I owe," he retorted, "all that any of my friends can afford."

We saw that there was inevitable limits even to popularity, and, withdrawing, wept copiously.—New York Press.

He Fell Into the Trap.

Wife—Did you mail that letter I gave you this morning?

Husband—Of course I did.

Wife—How provoking! I wanted to add a postscript.

Husband (producing the letter)—Well, here it is. Why didn't you tell me that in the first place?—Chicago News.

REVIEW OF WAR SITUATION.

The Work of the English During Last Week—Why Pretoria Was Reported Occupied.

London, June 3—Spencer Wilkinson reviewing the events of the week in South Africa for the Associated Press says:

"The situation can clearly be understood if we, in the first instance, neglect the Pretoria telegrams. Lord Roberts advanced from the Vaal in two columns, he himself with the main body, following the line of railway, and Generals French and Hamilton keeping pace with him a short march to the left and slightly in advance.

"On Monday night General Roberts was at Klip river station, the left wing of the column being south of Klipriviersburg. The Boers retreated before General Roberts, but resisted the left wing.

"On Tuesday night General Roberts was at Germiston and the left wing near Florida, just west of Johannesburg.

"On Wednesday morning General Roberts summoned Johannesburg and agreed to give twenty-four hours' delay before entering the town, which, however, he surrounded with troops. Generals French and Hamilton were kept away from the town and pushed forward.

On Thursday General Roberts entered Johannesburg and made a formal occupation. He held a review of two divisions, and then, leaving a brigade to garrison the town, he put his main body into camp to the north on the Pretoria road on Friday morning.

"At that time Generals French and Hamilton were well toward Pretoria. Very likely Gen. French was east of the railway and the remainder of the army within two easy marches of the Boer capital.

"Now as to Pretoria. On Wednesday President Kruger left. The Boer troops were dismissed from the forts at Pretoria and the town resolved to surrender and made its arrangements. The burghers were in panic and believed that Roberts was close at hand. These facts were telegraphed here by two independent witnesses.

"Our news of Lord Roberts was twenty-four hours old, and there was nothing improbable in his troops being where Pretoria reported them to be. Therefore, we were ready to believe that Pretoria would be occupied on Thursday. Now it is clear that the Pretoria telegrams expected the occupation two or three days too soon.

"General Roberts must now be before Pretoria, but the evidence is not sufficient to enable us to judge whether he has met serious resistance. There might be slight difficulty if the Boers have reoccupied the forts, but in all probability the entry into Pretoria will not be long delayed. The Boer military power is now completely broken and the war practically over, although the complete occupation of the country will take some time and probably will be delayed by many guerrilla bands.

President Kruger may form a band at Lydenburg, which, however, can do no great harm, as General Buller will move up to the Delagoa bay railway and stop Kruger's supplies. So soon as the British have all the railways, flying columns will quickly make an end to all local opposition and the Lydenburg region can be dealt with at leisure."

A Big Shipment.

The Southern Finishing and Warehouse Company on Saturday shipped seventeen car loads of finished cotton goods. This is a big shipment for one day and shows something of the extensive business carried on by this concern. Its product goes to all parts of the country.

A PRECIOUS BURDEN.

At the big fire in the Kenawash flats Phelim O'Leary was the fireman who traversed a lintel ledge at the sixth story, going from window to window, carrying a fainting woman in his arms through the flames until he reached the fire-escape and brought her down in safety.

Marshal Moran said he was a "natural-born fireman," and the next week secured his transfer to Truck 13, with promotion.

But Phelim O'Leary was lonely there. He would sit at the door of the engine house all day and never see or hope to see a sight of the little girl with the big, dark gray eyes, who didn't mind having him walk a part of the way and talk with her.

This little girl had grown to be a young woman. Her father had died. The worldly affairs of the family were found to be in such a shape that Maggie must help. So she became a stenographer and found employment in one of the big buildings in Wabash avenue.

It may have been by accident or it may not, but she was scarcely installed in her place when Phelim knew about it. By way of other accidents he often happened by the big building just as Maggie was leaving at the end of her day's work. If they were lovers no one ever heard them say so. If they ever sighed for each other when they were apart no one knew it.

One day Phelim was sitting silent in the engine house thinking of what he would say to her some day. When he had it all thought out his heart began to quake with fear at the idea that she might tell him there was another for whom she cared for more. He sat there racking his brain with these conflicting thoughts, when a "still" alarm came in. He counted the strokes as they came over the ticker. The first number was four, and the second figure of the box number sounded one, two, three, four, and then stopped.

"Forty-four," he murmured, and knelt his brow as the truck went dashing down Dearborn street. "That's Wabash and Monroe. If there was a fire there—but no, it isn't there."

The truck roared down Dearborn street and turned into Monroe and drew up at Wabash avenue. A cloud of smoke rolling above the big building told his trained eye where the fire was burning. He sprang from his truck and rushed toward it. As he reached the front of it the flames burst from the windows. He met some men and women as they rushed out of the building and asked them if they thought everybody was out. They said they believed they were.

"Are they all off the fifth floor?" he asked.

"Yes, I'm from the fifth floor," exclaimed a young woman excitedly. "No, no; where's Maggie?"

Without waiting to hear more Phelim ran into the building. A man at the door yelled for him to come back, but he disappeared in the smoke.

"Maggie! Maggie!" he cried as he sprang up the steps. Flight after flight he ascended. "Maggie! Maggie!" he cried as he went through the hot, blinding smoke.

The people in the street were watching the windows with anxious eyes. Word was running through the crowd that a girl had been burned to death, and that a fireman who had gone to her rescue had also perished.

The blackened face of a man was seen just then over the ledge a fifth-story window. The firemen in the street were running up a ladder. The face disappeared, and an instant later the man could be seen again through the smoke letting himself out over the ledge. As he swung out the crowd could see that he held a woman. The people below thought that he intended to drop to the pavement, and a cry of warning was raised from a thousand throats. The man let himself down from the ledge, holding the woman with his left arm, while the fingers of his right hand clutched the window ledge above. They could then see it was a fireman. He had swung down into the perilous position to enable the woman to get some fresh air lest she die of suffocation. Before his strength failed him the top rung the ladder was under his feet, and, refusing aid, he descended to the ground with his burden.

"Maggie," he whispered the name this time as he held her clasped tightly in his arms. He alone heard what she whispered to him, for the air was still ringing with the cheers of the people who were acclaiming him hero.—Chicago Tribune.

Laundry on the Ocean.

It is a practice with ocean liners to save up their soiled linen, towels, etc., until port is reached, and passengers are obliged to do the same thing. Now, however, one steamship has been provided with a complete laundry for caring for the wash of the ship and that of the passengers as well. It is capable of handling 7,000 pieces of linen a day.

SPAIN'S GREATEST NEED

Mr. R. P. Olvia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest blood and nerve remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50c. Sold by C. E. Holton druggist.

EDITOR'S AWFUL PLIGHT

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca, (Ill.), News, was afflicted for years with piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes that two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton druggist.

I WISH TO INFORM YOU

A PLEASURE AND A DUTY.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorris, W. Va. This remedy is sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

BISMARCK'S IRON NERVES

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 5c at Holton's drug store.

TAR HEEL Cough Syrup, it cures. 25c.

Says Dr. W. W. Moore, of Union Theological Seminary—"I have used Vick's Little Liver Pills and found a cure for obstinate constipation, from which I had not been able to get relief before. Enclosed find one dollar, for which please send me four boxes for some friends who are suffering as I have been. Yours truly, "W. W. MOORE."

BLOOD POISON.

In some cases the external signs of Contagious Blood Poison are so slight that the victim is firmly within the grasp of the monster before the true nature of the disease is known. In other cases the blood is quickly filled with this poisonous virus and the swollen glands, mucus patches in the mouth, sores on scalp, ulcers on tongue, sore throat, eruptions on skin, copper colored spots, and falling hair and eyebrows leave no room for doubt, as these are all unmistakable signs of Contagious Blood Poison.

Doctors still prescribe mercury and potash as the only cure for Blood Poison. These poisonous minerals never yet made a complete and permanent cure of Contagious Blood Poison. They drive the disease back into the system, cover it up for a while, but it breaks out again in worse form. These powerful minerals produce mercurial rheumatism and the most offensive sores and ulcers, causing the joints to stiffen and finger nails to drop off. Mercury and potash make wrecks, not cures, and those who have been dosed with these drugs are never free from aches and pain. S. S. S. acts in an entirely different manner, being a purely vegetable remedy; it forces the poison out of the system, and instead of tearing down, builds up and invigorates the general health. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this specific virus, and therefore the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. No matter in what stage or how hopeless the case may appear, even though pronounced incurable by the doctors, S. S. S. can be relied upon to make a rapid, permanent cure. S. S. S. is not a new, untried remedy; an experience of nearly fifty years has proven it a sure and unfailing cure for this disease. It is the only purely vegetable blood medicine known.

Mr. H. L. Myers, 100 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that doctors could do me no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. The large, red spots on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass."

Send for our Home Treatment Book, which contains valuable information about this disease, with complete directions for self treatment. Our medical department is in charge of physicians who have made a life-time study of blood diseases. Don't hesitate to write for any information or advice wanted. We make no charge whatever for this. All correspondence is held in the most sacred confidence. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC COMPANY, ATLANTA, GA.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be agast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

MAY A MAN SELECT HIS SUNDAY?

Elsewhere it will be seen that Rev. Mr. Johnson referred in his sermon yesterday to the fact that a man had been fined in Greensboro for working on Sunday, even though it was established that he had religiously observed Saturday as his day of rest and observance. We consider it very significant that a minister of the South, especially, should take a position of this kind. It indicates that we are becoming to make clearer distinctions between essentials and non-essentials in matters of belief; that we are to have a clearer vision or the spirit rather than the supposed letter of religion. And while we disagree with Rev. Mr. Johnson in this matter, this difference, we make no doubt, arises from different points of view of the object and the cause for the observance of the Sabbath.

Were the keeping of one day in seven a matter of religion solely, grounded upon the sole fact that it is a biblical command, then men would have a right to keep whatsoever day they chose, and the State would have no right whatever, upon the principle on which our system is founded, to take any notice of the fact at all. The State would have no right to say what day should be observed, any more than it would have the right to say whether baptism should be administered by immersion or by pouring. Were the Sabbath only a religious institution, by taking note of it and regulating it by law, the State would be abridging religious liberty, because some citizens hold that the first day of the week is the proper day, while a very large class hold that Saturday is the day, and yet others believe in Friday. By forcing a believer in Saturday to worship on Sunday, that man's religious freedom would be destroyed. From that standpoint, Mr. Johnson would undoubtedly be right.

But Sunday is not merely a religious institution, it is more. As a mere religious institution it could not be reconciled to the principles of our government, as Mr. Johnson suggests. It is an institution founded upon facts of physical experience which happen to coincide with biblical commands. The experience of mankind has taught the physical truth that more can be accomplished in a given length of time by working six days and resting one, than by working seven and resting none. Thus it is best for society that this principle be recognized by law. The law does not compel a man to worship on Sunday, it merely compels him to desist from all labors because his labor disturbs the rest which society has imposed upon itself. If this principle be allowed, then it follows that the State has a right to say that a specific day shall be observed, because of the impossibility of accomplishing the desired end in any other way. If it were left to each individual to observe whatever day he chose, then there would be no rest for society, and both society, and individuals who desired to rest, would be denied the privilege.

We quite agree with Mr. Johnson that to fine an individual for plowing on Sunday, and allow a corporation to run trains on Sunday is a parody, from any standpoint whatever.

A REASONABLE VIEW OF ENGLAND.

One day last week we made some comment, suggested by an article in the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot on The Tory and the Toady, which was a severe arraignment of persons in America who were disposed to look with a friendly eye upon England. Since then we have found an admirable sentence or two in John S. Wise's book, "The End of an Era," which is well worth reproducing here:

Travel through Russia, or Turkey, or Austria, and you will never see a thing to stir your heart with a desire to be one of them. Stand in the shadow of the Pyramids, and you will be untouched by one wish that your blood were Egyptian. Go through Germany, and, while you will find there much to admire, there will still be something lacking. In the home of the fickle Gaul, even at Napoleon's tomb, the American boy is not in touch with his surroundings. Spain and Italy, while possessed of a wealth of antique beauty, are to us only echoes of a decayed and different civilization.

But, some sunny day in London, wander through Westminster Abbey and read the names. Some misty morning in Trafalgar Square, cast your eye upward to the form of Nelson, as he stands there in the fog, with the lions sleeping at the base of his column. In some leisure hour, visit the crypt of St. Paul's, where the car that bore Wellington to his rest still stands. Then, perhaps, you will appreciate the meaning of an old story when he tells you, "There's nothing outside America which tugs at an American's heart-strings like the names and deeds and monuments of Old England."

Don't let us deceive ourselves about it, either. Don't think or say that it is a better country than our own. Don't let us be Anglomaniacs. That is not at all necessary. America is good enough for us. In many things these blessed United States already equal any nation on the globe. In almost everything, time considered, they are a marvel. Within the past seventy years, American inventive genius has contributed more to make life easy, and advance civilization, than all the world beside in many hundred years, if we except the inventions of printing and gunpowder. In future we may, and probably shall, become in all things the greatest nation that ever existed. But it is not disloyal to your own country, and no disparagement of its greatness, to thank God that the people from whom we sprang were Englishmen, and that we have part and lot in England's glory.

Like Mr. Wise, we think it no wrong to take pride in the fact that America has a part in England's glory. We need not shut our eyes to whatever wrong she has done. She has done egregious wrong, what country has not—let's let that fortunate one cast the first stone. We should be satisfied to regret her mistakes, condemn her wrongs, but give her credit for what she has done. Our people fail to make distinction between what the English people have always stood for, and what a weak or foolish King or ministry may have temporarily stood for. The distinction is quite worth making.

The Telegram has been the recipient of a very large number of kind words expressed in praise of its last Saturday's edition, all of which are very much appreciated in this office. It is but reasonable that the Telegram should be proud of itself, and right next in value (to a paper as to an individual) to a sense of self-satisfaction is the commendation of friends. Self-satisfaction comes first, not as a matter of vanity, but because no paper can be worth anything unless it has standards of its own to be striven for and reached. The Telegram means to persevere in its intention to give Greensboro and this section such a paper as is deserved, and with a reasonable patronage from our friends we shall do this.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

DECLINE OF BUCKWHEAT.

A Crop Once Large in This Country, But Steadily Decreasing.

What is the matter with buckwheat? Cakes made of it and eaten warm are regarded as very nutritious and are still a favorite article of food with many thousands, but for all that the cultivation of the grain is steadily declining. It must be that a great many have stopped eating buckwheat cakes, for there is certainly a great deal less buckwheat to be eaten than in former days.

Thirty-five years ago the farmers of our country sowed, yearly, over 1,000,000 acres in buckwheat. Since then the crop has sometimes been larger, sometimes smaller, but, on the whole, the acreage and yield have been almost steadily decreasing. In 1898 the acreage was 678,332, only a little more than half that of thirty-five years ago, and the yield was only 11,700,000 bushels, which was just about one-half the yield at the close of the Civil War.

No explanation of this great decline in buckwheat raising has been made. It is probable, however, that the unreliability of the crop, which is sometimes large and sometimes small, without any apparent reason for the variation, has discouraged a great many farmers. Another reason for the decline may be the larger use within the past few years of cereal preparations, especially wheat, all of which come under the general head of hygienic foods. These preparations have probably won many persons from their allegiance to buckwheat cakes.

If buckwheat raising continues to decline, perhaps the bees most of all will miss the fields, for they are very partial to the flowers of this plant, which secrete a great deal of honey that is not, however, of the first quality, as everybody knows who has eaten it.

Buckwheat is not raised widely over the world, and this fact makes its decline in America, where it is most largely grown, all the more interesting. Russia and France are about the only countries in Europe that produce it, and Great Britain has never taken kindly to buckwheat cakes and imports very little of the grain.—N. Y. Sun.

RUSSIA'S GREAT NAVAL DEPOT.

Vladivostok, on Siberian Coast, Is Being Fitted for the Purpose.

Russia has expended, and is still expending, a vast amount of money in making Vladivostok a suitable terminus for the Trans-Siberian Railway, and the development of that port as a naval station is very remarkable. The wharves, railway station and landing facilities have been made superior to those of any other port in that part of the world. Stone and brick have replaced the old wooden buildings of the city. The view of the place from the sea is very striking. The massive Russo-Chinese Bank is built of white stone and lighted by electricity. The solid brick barracks, building of the Russo-Chinese Eastern Railway attract attention from a distance.

The flag that floats over the last mentioned building is a combination of the Russian and Chinese standards, the upper diagonal showing half the Russian flag, the lower half the Chinese national emblem, the dragon. Other fine buildings are the shore house of the admiral, the headquarters of the navy, and new and handsome postoffices and some imposing mercantile structures. Such is Vladivostok in its civil aspect. "Of its military aspect," says a correspondent of the London Times, "it may truly be said that nothing which modern fortification can suggest seems to have been left undone to supplement nature, and she in her turn must surely have created Vladivostok to be what it is—one of the strongest of naval fortresses."—Chicago Chronicle.

Sir George White's Leg.

Shortly before the outbreak of the war Sir George White, the defender of Ladysmith, who has just reached London, met with an accident to his leg. He had by no means recovered when hostilities were in sight, and Lord Wolseley told him that he feared his temporary lameness must be a reason for keeping him at home. But Sir George White, who was lunching with his chief at the United Service Club, had an answer ready which clinched the matter: "I beg your pardon, sir," he answered; "my leg is well enough for anything except running away."—N. Y. Press.

Housewives Next.

"What!" cried the labor leader, as he entered the house. "No supper yet?" "No," replied his wife, calmly. "You will recall that I began work at 6 o'clock this morning." "What has that got to do with it?" he demanded. "My eight-hour watch expired at 2 o'clock this afternoon," she answered.

LYMAN ABBOTT TOMORROW.

Will Preach the Baccalaureate Sermon at Trinity College.

Durham Herald.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached Tuesday morning by Dr. Lyman Abbott, of New York. Dr. Abbott is the editor of the Outlook, and was for many years the pastor of Plymouth church, being the successor of Henry Ward Beecher.

Dr. Abbott's coming is looked forward to with great interest. A prominent gentleman who has heard him often, in speaking of him yesterday, said:

"I consider Dr. Abbott the greatest preacher of this century. More than this, he is the prophet of his time. He has done more, perhaps, than any other man to construct out of the chaos of present day criticism a positive gospel. His gospel is powerful, because it is of the old gospel made clear to a thinking age. For clear and forceful expression he has few equals. For the power that comes from the combination of the philosopher and the religious genius he has no superiors among us."

Hon. John Temple Graves, who delivers the commencement address, is recognized as one of the foremost orators and thinkers in the Southern States. Wherever he has been—North or South—he has charmed his hearers by his magnetic personality and his elegant addresses.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican county convention, for the nomination of county and legislative candidates, will be held here on Monday, July 2d—two days after the Democratic convention. The official call will be made shortly.

The Republicans are hard at work and make all sorts of claims as to carrying the county this year. There will be no lack of candidates when the convention meets.

A Notable Telegram.

The first postal missive to be conveyed over the route of the projected Cape to Cairo telegraph has just been delivered in England. It is a postcard, and bears the official postmarks of Nyassaland, Yoro, Omdurman and Cairo. Mr. A. J. Swann, F. R. G. S., chief political officer at Kota Kota, who has spent eighteen years in darkest Africa, was the sender of the card, which has now been added to the Queen's collection of Imperial curiosities, her majesty having been graciously pleased to accept it.—London Chronicle.

Bungling Marksmanship.

The surgeon examined the injury, laid aside his instruments and called for some bandages.

"It is only a slight flesh wound," he said. "If the bullet had gone an inch to the left it would have severed an artery, in which event I could have used my new appliances for the taking up of lacerated blood vessels. It would have been a beautiful case," he added, with a sigh of mild disappointment.—Chicago Tribune.

A HOSPITAL MYSTERY.

Charity Patient Wondered How He Lived Without Food.

A patient in the Presbyterian hospital is an Italian, with large, dark, soulful eyes, who was brought in about three weeks ago dangerously ill with some complaint that forbade his eating any solid food. At first he could not eat at all, and had no inclination to, but as soon as the crisis was passed they began to dribble beef tea and arrowroot gruel into him.

He was afraid of these forms of nourishment at first, and when his nurse made him understand that he must take it he looked at her with an expression of the same reproachful apprehension that an intelligent dog might use looking at the person who was about to administer to it a dose of prussic acid. He took it with the same despairing docility as the dog might have taken his fatal draught, though his pale brow was dewed with beads of anguish. Then he looked slightly relieved and murmured:

"It is not so bad."

A morning or two ago, when a friend called to see him, he said, in reply to the friend's inquiry:

"I am weak, but if I could get me home and get me something to eat in my estomach I should be more better. It is a curieusea how I keep me up so well with no seeng but deesee darn drug."—Chicago Record.

AT A DANCERS FEET.

For three years she had loved him—years that had been full of both joy and sorrow; of happiness and heartache. For three long years she had waited for the words which would brighten her whole future—just three little words—"I love you."

"Why doesn't he speak?" she questioned herself. "Why doesn't he tell me that he loves me?" Suddenly she caught her breath. "Ah! I remember there was something to-night—he said he would tell me something—perhaps." And as she left the room a new joy shone in her eyes and a new hope dawned in her heart.

As they entered the box the orchestra was playing the soft, sad strains of a selection from "Martha." Cecile settled herself cosily in one of the most comfortable of the chairs and Hubert seated himself at her left.

"There is a new feature for to-night, Cecile," he said, studying the programme, "a dancer—her first appearance in London." Cecile glanced at her bill. "What an odd name," she mused—"Zanta. I wonder who she is?"

"An Italian, one of the boys at the club told me. He met her once. Said she was a sweet little thing. Her life story has been a sad one. She was married, but left her husband—deserted him, they say—his face suddenly darkened. He bent nearer. "Cecile," he whispered in a changed voice, "I told you I had something to tell you—something about my past—a story. To-night you shall hear it, for I believe that you, and you only, can give me the sympathy I crave."

The music crashed. The theatre was in darkness. Then a steady blue light illuminated the stage and from the orchestra there floated strains so wondrous, so strange that Cecile shuddered. The audience was in a state of breathless expectancy.

Then the weird lights changed to a rosy hue and there bounded on the stage a little figure clad in shrouds of filmy lace, her dark hair falling in long ringlets about her fair shoulders. Her dark grand eyes flashed a glance around the theatre. They reached the lower box—paused—the dancer staggered backward, clasping her hands to her heart!

A low cry at her side caused Cecile to start toward her companion. He had half arisen from his place, and with dilated eyes was gazing at the dancer. With a supreme effort the dancer collected herself; the music crashed anew; the lights grew brighter, and "Zanta," the pet of Italy, installed herself in the hearts of the London audience.

Cecile sat in stunned silence amid the applause which followed—a silence which remained unbroken by her companion.

"Zanta" was to appear again later in the evening. She waited eagerly for the arrival of the number, a vague fear filling her heart. It seemed years to her before the lights were again extinguished and the calciums flooded the stage. A round of applause greeted the second appearance of the dancer.

At that moment a messenger entered the box and handed Hubert a folded paper. With trembling fingers he tore it open, Cecile watching his face in breathless silence. Without a word he handed her the note. "Read it, Cecile," he whispered in a happy, ringing voice. "It can tell you better than I can," and with a fast beating heart she opened it and read:

"Dear Hubert—Five years ago I left you. I was mad—jealously mad! I cannot tell you what my life since then has been—nothing but sorrow and bitter atonement. But yet I was true to you—with all my heart and soul, for I love you! Ah, you do not know! I am to appear again this evening. If you still love me, and as a sign of your forgiveness, throw me the flower which you wear upon your coat. It will—"

Cecile dropped the paper with a low, bitter cry. The dance was ended and "Zanta" was making her last sweeping bow. As in a dream Cecile saw her companion arise. In his hand was a single rose. Bending his head he pressed his lips upon it, then flung it upon the stage, where it fell fluttering at the feet of the dancer.

With a glad cry "Zanta" snatched it from the floor to her lips, her dark eyes flashing in her joy and excitement. Then, amid a storm of applause, she tripped from the stage.

Cecile, her face white and drawn, turned to her companion. "She is—she is?" he faltered in a faint voice.

"Yes," he whispered, a sudden light illuminating his face, "she is"—he paused and added softly—"my wife."

And the flame of one woman's happiness went out.

Misplaced.

The girl in the golf cape turned partly around to scrutinize the attire of the girl in the fur jacket, and in consequence she slipped and fell on the muddy crossing.

Meanwhile the girl in the fur jacket passed on.

"That wouldn't have happened if she'd had a little more rubber on her heels and a little less in her neck," she said.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY HE WINKED.

The Misapprehension Under Which a Drug Clerk Labored.

The well-groomed, middle-aged man with the plug hat walked into a downtown drug-store on Sunday afternoon last and winked his left eye violently. The young pharmacist standing behind the toilet articles show case smiled wanly.

"Sorry," he said, "but it can't be done. They're mighty particular in this man's town about that sort of business, and—"

"But I—" the plug-hatted man started to say, still winking his left eye industriously.

"I know, maybe you do need it pretty bad and all that," said the cheerful young pharmacist, "but if I give it to you and get nailed, why we'd have to go out of business in a rush, and—"

"But isn't it queer that—"

"Yes, it's darned queer, sir, of course, but this is a pretty blue-lawish sort of a burg, you understand, and a man can't even get a shave here on Sunday, no matter whether he's got a hobo's growth of beard on his face or not. I'd like to sell you a good, big hooter—s'pose you were out with the bunch last night and need a good eye-opener in your business—but I wouldn't dare take a chance and give it to you. The boss 'ud—"

The well-groomed man, still winking, and blinking his left eye as if he were doing it for wages, cut in right there with emphasis.

"Look here," said he, "are you wound up for 24 hours or what the dickens ails you? There's a lump of gravel in my left eye and I came in here to see if I couldn't get some conversationless clerk to blow or drown it out for me."

Then the abashed apothecary dug the rock out of the man's eye and forced himself to the conclusion that all winkers are not necessarily booze grafters.—Washington Post.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of static or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. I have never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will, cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's—Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.
For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

WINE OF CARDUI

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

MADSTONE ACTS FOR CHARM.

Successful Treatment of a Horse Bitten by a Mad Dog.

Cincinnati has a real madstone. It was tested Tuesday on a horse that had been bitten by a mad dog and it worked like a charm. The owner of the stone is Asa Richardson, of No. 515 East Pearl street.

Several days ago a fine horse belonging to a farmer who has a place about twelve miles up the river was attacked by a dog that had all the symptoms of hydrophobia. The dog fastened its fangs in the tender part of the horse's nostril and tore it loose from the upper lip, making a terrible wound. The nostril swelled and turned as black as coal, filling the air passage and almost suffocating the poor animal. It was in this condition when taken to Richardson on Tuesday and application made for the use of the madstone.

The stone is a small, crystal-like formation, of a pretty shade of blue, but very adhesive when placed on a wound containing any poison. When placed on the torn nostril of the horse it stuck like a piece of steel to a powerful magnet. When filled with the poison it dropped off and was at once immersed in lukewarm water, into which it discharged the fluid it had extracted from the wound. The poison formed a greenish scum on the water and was pronounced to be the virus from hydrophobia. Fifteen times the stone held to the wound, only dropping from it when filled with the virus. On the sixteenth application it refused to take hold, and Richardson said there was no more poison in the animal.

The application of the madstone worked wonders in the appearance of the nostrils of the horse. The black clotted blood disappeared, the swelling was reduced and the heavy dark ridges gave way to a healthy looking color. The horse was taken back to the farm, and Richardson says it will not be bothered with the rabies.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

KIPLING RUNS AN ERRAND.

Cape Town Yarn of Boots and an Unimpressed Sentry.

I walked over to the infantry camp at Sea Point the other morning with Mr. Rudyard Kipling. As we neared the camp we overtook a private carrying in his hand a large pair of boots.

Mr. Kipling asked if we were on the right road and the man said, "Yes; are you going there? Then you can take these boots. I 'av to entrain at 12 o'clock, and I 'in't goin' ter miss it fer no blessed boots. 'Er'e tike 'old," he continued, thrusting the boots into Mr. Kipling's hand, "and give 'em to Private ——— company."

Mr. Kipling promised faithfully and gave a receipt, which he signed, but the man did not notice the name. "My friend," said Mr. Kipling, "you'll get your head chaffed off when you get back to the guard room."

"What for?" vainly asked the man, and departed.

No sooner were we inside the railings than Mr. Kipling was accosted by a military policeman. "What are you doing here? You must get out of here you know—sharp!"

Now, Mr. Kipling has a pass from the commander-in-chief to go wherever he pleases in South Africa, and, besides that, he is Rudyard Kipling, whom private soldiers call their brother and father.

Just then a police sergeant rode up and said: "Please, sir, I lived ten years with the man as you got your tobacco from in Brighton. Anything I can do for you you?"

"Yes," said Kipling, "I want this man taken away and killed!"

So Private ——— had his boots.—London Mail.

Terrible to Contemplate.

Hence the Expression.

The Cliff Dweller had returned home intoxicated, and, making a mistake, slipped off the crags and been dashed to pieces on the rocks, hundreds of feet below.

"Did you hear the verdict that fool jury gave on the death of that man who was drowned?"

"No; what was it?"

"They said they had come to the conclusion that he had died with water on the brain."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Well, 'ignorance is bliss,' you know."

"Indeed it isn't. When I want to know something about somebody, and can't find out about it, I nearly lose my mind."—Chicago Record.

THE YOUNG WIFE.

Lack of Experience That Causes Numerous Trying Mistakes.

For lack of experience many trying mistakes are made by the young housekeeper which would gladly be corrected if only some kindly friend would come to the rescue. Take a young girl fresh from the school room and from a home where there have been servants enough to do all that is necessary about the house work, or else from a home where the work of the house has all been done by mother, and put into her inexperienced hands the care and entire charge of a house, what else can be expected but that serious mistakes will be made and many bitter tears shed in consequence of her want of knowledge. Ninety-nine out of every hundred young girls that marry are totally ignorant of the necessary care that will fall upon her.

If the other one girl from the hundred has been fortunate enough to have had a far-seeing mother, who has taught her daughter to look carefully after a household, she should rise up and bless her thoughtful mother for her wisdom. Before a girl becomes a wife she should at least be able to oversee the work that is done in her home, give reasonable directions to the servants, and in time of need she should be able to make good bread, roast and broil meats, know how to make good soups, a few simple desserts, and, above all, know how to make good coffee. From this simple beginning she may by care and watchfulness, become a good manager of the household stores, even if the necessity of doing the cooking never happens to fall upon her.

I have heard mothers say, "Oh! the cares of life will fall soon enough upon her; let her have a free foot while she can, and when she marries she will soon learn." In consequence of this mistaken kindness her daughters have everything to learn when the cares of a home fall upon them, and in consequence of their lack of knowledge many bitter tears are shed, dollars are wasted by her mistakes, and in a large majority of cases an unhappy home and wretched surroundings are the result. Her daughters are left to grow up in the same way, and, in consequence of their mother's ignorance, matters go from bad to worse.

There are many, of course, who have too much pride to allow matters to go on in this way, and to these great credit should be given, for they have a hard fight, and well deserve the victory when it has been won.

Every mother should teach her daughter the rudiments of housekeeping.

Not Anxious for an Encore.

"This role of mine," said the married actor, who had been up with the baby every night for a week, "is a strange mixture of the legitimate and vaudeville."

"In what particular, dear?" asked his wife.

"Well, you see, I'm a walking gentleman in continuous performance."—Philadelphia Press.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science. In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered, "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends."

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Maret, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

DYSPEPSIA

"My wife suffered for many years from Nervous Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sleeplessness and Nervous Debility," writes John Kelloes, Philadelphia. "We tried many physicians and numerous remedies, but with no results, until I heard of Johnston's Dyspepsia Cure. We bought six boxes, and the results far surpassed our expectations. She now eats and sleeps well, is gaining in flesh, and her color, which had gotten to be yellow and sickly, is now as fresh as when we were first married, and I tell her that Johnston's Dyspepsia Cure has made her ten years younger."

The following letter speaks for itself:

Baltimore, Md., May 30, 1900.
Messrs. J. W. Scott & Co., Greensboro, N. C.: Gentlemen:—Find enclosed invoice for bill of gelatine ordered through our salesman. We send a few extra packages and would be pleased to have you try a package for your own use.

A five-cent carton contains enough when made by directions to serve eight or ten persons. The manufacturers of other brands of gelatine on the market retailing at ten and fifteen cents claim theirs will yield four pints of jelly to the carton. Ours will yield three pints to the carton and costs the consumer less than one-half. You can push the sale of our goods with every assurance of giving entire satisfaction to the trade. We guarantee it to be as represented in every particular.

The Small Things That Are Not Able to Stand Separately.

Public school No. 3, the Normal practice school, will close Wednesday.

Mr. J. A. Cannady has closed out his grocery business with a view to again engaging in the railroad service.

Carpenters are at work repairing the section of the Central Hotel building damaged by fire a short time ago.

Policeman Whittington today recovered a fine pearl-handled hammerless revolver which had been stolen from Mr. Charles H. Ireland's residence a month or two ago. A white man pawned the revolver to B. Stadium, who later sold it.

As Mrs. Wetmore was riding down Asheboro street on a bicycle Saturday evening she was run into and thrown from her wheel by a negro riding from an opposite direction. She suffered no injury beyond a severe fright. A warrant has been issued for the negro.

Admires Our Fellow Citizen.

Charlotte Observer.

The evolutions of Mr. Spencer B. Adams, of the fifth district of North Carolina, are interesting. He was the Republican candidate for Congress in his district two years ago, defeating for the nomination Hon. Thos. Settle, the ablest Republican campaigner in the State, and himself being defeated at the polls by Hon. W. W. Kitchin. He is now the Republican candidate for Governor and the failure of the Republican convention of his congressional district at Greensboro a few days ago to nominate a candidate for Congress is said to be due to his desire to have the nomination for himself after he is defeated for Governor in August. We cannot but admire the ability of a man, who was a clerk of the Superior Court of the out-of-the-way county but a few years ago, to "hold up" a State party for all in sight as "Governor" Adams is doing, and The Observer gives him its compliments and respectful salutations.

University and Trinity Commencements.

Quite a number of people were here today en route to Chapel Hill and Durham to attend the University and Trinity College commencements. Among those who left for Durham on the afternoon train were the following Trinity trustees: Dr. Dred Peacock, of this city; Rev. Dr. J. R. Brooks, of Reidsville; Rev. W. C. Willson, of Winston; Rev. H. L. Atkins and Mr. J. Stikeleather, of Asheville, and Dr. W. G. Bradshaw, of High Point.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, who is to deliver the literary address Wednesday, was also among the passengers.

Dr. W. G. Bradshaw will deliver the address at the alumni reunion.

At West Market Street.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper, always impressive, was more than usually so at West Market church yesterday morning. As Dr. Rowe called upon those present to come forward and partake of Christ's body and drink His blood the choir sang "Come unto Me," the effect being to solemnize still more the spirit of those present.

The offertory rendered by Miss Maud Hunter was excellent, and much appreciated by the entire assembly. Miss Hunter's voice—naturally sweet—is well cultivated, and her singing always gives pleasure.

Advertisers.

Hary-Belk Bros. Co. hold the key to a great many bargains, according to the announcement in their regular space on page five.

J. W. Scott & Co. talk of the value of their gelatine today. It is interesting.

Kirkman & Snider, sheet metal and tin workers have an interesting announcement in our penny column today.

C. W. Jennings announces another large consignment of bananas.

T. A. Lyon has a for rent notice on another page.

Drury Howell sells ice.

Yates' bakery for best bread.

S. G. Hodgkin & Co. are advertising a removal sale.

Will Move to Reidsville.

S. G. Hodgkin & Co. have filed with the clerk of the Superior Court an amendment to their charter, asking to be allowed to remove their stock of goods to Reidsville. The business will be consolidated with Mr. Sample S. Brown's dry goods and notions business in that town. The goods will be moved within the next few days.

Sale of Realty.

The remaining lots of the John M. Dick property, on North Elm and North Davis streets, were sold at public auction today by Miss Annie W. Dick, commissioner. The property sold fairly well, one lot bringing $1,870. Mr. John L. King bought the three lots.

A. & M. BUYS PLANO MACHINES.

No better example of labor saving devices exist than the improved makes of harvesting machinery. Through the courtesy of Mr. W. O. Stratford we saw today several of the celebrated Plano machines ranging from a "baby" 3½ feet mower to some 6 feet ones sold the A. & M. College. It was an interesting and instructive sight to see these machines. While there Mr. Stratford showed us telegrams ordering more of these machines by the solid car. Judging from appearances these machines are certainly good ones.

LADIES who wish to enjoy real foot comfort during the warm season should try a pair of our "Popular" or "Pie Pie" common sense Oxford ties. Our trade on these two styles increases constantly, because ladies who once try them wear them every summer and recommend them to their friends.
